

HOW TO MAKE REMOTE WORKING SUCCESSFUL FOR YOUR BUSINESS

For remote working to work, there are several things your business has to do. And, getting it right from the start is pivotal for the best results. After all, you want the transition to be seamless, productivity to remain high, and your B2B sales and marketing measurables to continue to grow. So, how can you guarantee success?

1. COMMUNICATION MATTERS

According to Tribal Impact, 74% of employees have the feeling they are missing out on company news. When your teams are working from home, that just won't do! Design an internal communications strategy, be transparent, and encourage regular communication.

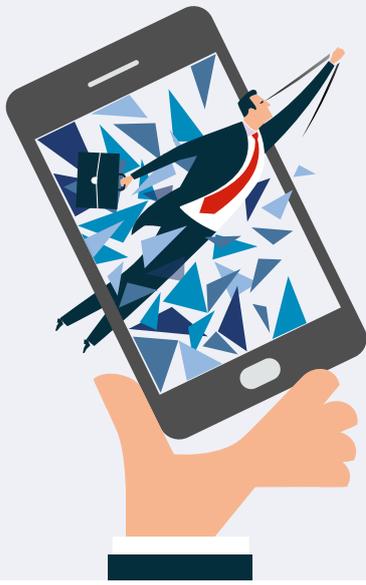

2. DIGITAL MARKETING MATTERS

Being present online has never been more crucial. It's all about getting noticed — so, consider an effective social media strategy, optimize your website for search engines and conversions, create a high-quality content and email marketing plan and measure results from the outset.

3. MAXIMIZE ON EXISTING CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP

Your customers are your greatest business asset. And, remote working should not impact the professional relationship you've built with them. Use detailed customer insight to provide the best experience, and identify upselling and cross-selling opportunities where possible.

4. ASSESS YOUR TECHNOLOGY STACK

Now more than ever, the right business technology is pivotal. So, ensure your teams have the tools they need to do their jobs effectively from the comfort of their own homes. And, consider how tech could make your business better — from automation to artificial intelligence (AI).

5. GENERATE LEADS THROUGH YOUR BUSINESS WEBSITE

Too many businesses miss opportunities that land on their website every single day. By including innovative lead generation technology in your strategy, you'll maximize your chances of conversion, turn every website visitor into a lead and transform your B2B sales pipeline.
